Materials

It is critical to have technology that reduces supply chain issues, increases operational efficiency, and provides consistent results in order to improve the company's bottom line. Materials are the essential ingredients to a successful concrete operation, and Jonel's material solutions help; by centralizing mix and inventory information, removing constraints in the supply chain, and providing accurate data to the organization's other enterprise systems for increased uptime, and greater throughput.

Whether designing a new state-of-the-art plant or trying to remove bottlenecks from an existing operation, Jonel has the full materials solution portfolio to help any organization.

In a majority of operations, front-line managers and professionals make decisions that impact an organization’s profitability every hour, every day. Jonel’s Business Solutions give these employees the information they need in real-time to make the decisions that will improve customer service, product quality, and add more to the bottom line.

Jonel focuses on a modular approach to all of our solutions. First, we identify the area of your operations that can be improved the most for the least amount of capital investment, and then we take immediate action. Our cutting edge solutions are designed to be affordable, easy to use and deploy, so time and precious resources can be focused on identifying service level improvements and operating inefficiencies.

By taking this approach, we are able to adapt solutions quicker, easier and with tighter integration, energizing teams with clear goals and Key Performance Indicators to help quantify successes. That’s the value of a 360 degree view of your business.

Sharpen Company Business Objectives

Every segment of business operations, from the initial in-bound materials to a final product delivery, requires a focused, refined operating strategy. The ability to adapt to business demands as constant change happens can determine the outcome of a well executed, highly profitable operation.

People, processes, and technology are intertwined starting at managing the supply chain, and continuing through production, and delivery. With growing development demands, Concrete 360 is the process solution that allows companies to improve focus on each element of an entire operation, making it more cohesive and streamlined.

Impending Necessity for Optimization

Orchestrating multiple elements and details at every stage of all operational processes, plus navigating the complexity of day-to-day business, is a continuous challenge.

Jonel has the solution. There are countless ways to increase profits by optimizing a firm's performance. With the versatility of a solution like Concrete 360, we’re equipped to help any organization determine the best place to get started.

Results: More customers. Lower costs. Increased profits.

What a simple initial step enables: Jonel provides cutting-edge tools that help operations improve service levels, and businesses increase profitability. See results through technologies such as Archer, our highly-customizable, highly-scalable batching solutions, and business resource management systems like Clutch mobile business analytics. Daily Insight business intelligence platforms and Access Unlimited enterprise dispatching system both add capabilities to handle previously difficult areas. We have the ability to create a solution to fit the entire periphery of any business vision.
